A fire caused by the explosion of an oil heater in the front hall of the home of Benjamin Sarovy on Prospect street was responsible for the ringing in of Box 16 Thursday night at 8:10 o'clock. Four pieces of apparatus, the auto pumper, auto truck and chemical responded had were soon at the scene of the blaze. When the firemen arrive, on the scene the house was well ablaze and after three streams of water had been turned onto the house the fire was gradually subdued. The house which was a frame structure was pretty well gutted but no estimate of the damage due to the fire and water could be made Thursday evening. The house is the property of Oliver Lavigne. The recall was sounded at 8:50, but the apparatus did not return to the engine house until well after nine o'clock. The auto pumper had trouble while making the run to the fire and got only a short distance beyond the town hall when it was necessary to stop and the remainder of the trip was given up.

The Windham County Inter-church

The time may come when Windham county will figure well as one in which a good grade of tobacco is raised. The Willimantic lumber and coal company have obtained several thousand tobacco plants and will distribute them among any of the farmers of this county who desire to raise tobacco. The company requires, however, that those who take the plants give them a fair trial. When Cohan and Harris presented The House of Glass, the press called it "one of the big outstanding drams of the American stage." It is a powerful, appealing drama, with a thrill in every scene—and one that gives the Myrkle-Harder company unusual opportunity to appear at its best. The story is that if a girl wrongfully accused of crime evades her parole and disappears from the ren of the police. Years later after she attained everything that is desirable in life she again falls into the meshes of the law—as a parole breaker and the "House of Glass" she has built threatens to crash around her. Justice triumplis in the end, however, but not until the inhumanity of the present system of police espionage has been demonstrated. The Myrkle-Harder Company has some real treats in store for the rest of the week. Nothing But the Truth, Lilac Times, Remnant, A Young Girl's Romance and Sis Hopkins.

One of the most unusual attractions ever shown on the screen will be the feature at the Breed theatre today and Saturday when Girl of the Sea, feature at the Breed theatre today and Saturday when Girl of the Ses, the big submarine picture made by the Submarine Corporation, will be offered with young Betty Hilburn in the leading role. Girl of the Sea is so called, because the heroine, when a little child, was shipwrecked and was the only survivor, being washed ashore and extled upon a reef. The passengers, including her father and mother, were claimed by the waters, but the child miraculously escaped and finds herself alone on a tropical feland. For a number of years, depending upon natural resources for food, she practically lives part of her time in the water surrounding the reef. A cave, her only protection from storms, is her haven. She knows every nook and crevice. In the course of time rescuers reach the island: but the young girl is still a product of her environment, and a child of the waters. With the coming of the yachting party, drama enters into her life. From then on the picture is one intense situation after another. Miss Hilburn, a beautiful girl of sixteen, is given an opportunity to display her wonderful swimming ability.

One of the most interesting casts: secured this season will surround Clara Kimball Young in her next big production, Eyes of Youth. The cast has been selected from the very highest ranks of both stage and screen, and there is hardly a bit in the production that is not being played by an artist of star qualities. Miss Young is playing the role of Gina Ashling. is playing the role of Gina ashling, which was created in the New York production, one of the most sensitional successes of the season, by Marjorle Rambeau. One of the really big parts of the play is that of Pac-io Salvo, the Italian impesario, who inveigles Gina into accompanying him to Europe for an operatic career. The distinguished actor, William Court-leigh, has been secured for this role, while Gareth Hughes will play the role of Kenneth Ashling, the brother, and Edmund Love, a favorite of both the stage and the screen in New York and throughout the country, is play-ing the part of Peter, the successful suitor. Fabor and McGowan are also there with a side-splitting talking and singing act. John F. Clark, the vaudeville poet and story-teller, will make his appearance at the Strand. Do not be offended. For the special feature picture the Strand is showing Marguerite Mursh in The Phantom Honeymoon. There are many-brilliant scenes and many gorgeous gowns that go to make The Phantom Honeymoon one of the most remarkable productions of the day. It is richly deserving of packed houses at every performance, and judging from the many favorable comments of last night, it is easy to believe this picture will play to overflow business during the week at the Strand. A Kinogram Weekly closes this fine show. A big show is arranged for Sunday. The feature picture will be of an all star cast including Anita Stewart and Earle Williams. A big First National Special D. W. Griffith production, The Greater Question, will be shown Monday Tuesday and Wednesday at the Strand.
